

Media release

16 September 2010

CLV to proceed with plans to develop student housing near UWA

Campus Living Villages (CLV), in conjunction with The University of Western Australia and planning consultants Urbis, will now proceed with developing plans for high quality, affordable student accommodation, following State Government approval for a scheme amendment on land adjacent to the University.

"Gaining this approval is a significant milestone for this important project," said Andrew Kirk, Director of Development for Campus Living Villages. "This decision will enable UWA to meet the accommodation needs of students who seek to live close to campus," he said.

CLV plans to develop accommodation that will provide a vibrant, safe environment for students that will minimise the use of cars, taking into account the needs of the University and the surrounding community.

"CLV will take steps to make sure the community has access to information and opportunities to provide feedback throughout the planning and development process," added Andrew Kirk.

Ends

Media contact:

Brigitte Murray
Director of Marketing, Campus Living Villages
e. brigitte.murray@clv.com.au
t. +61 402 042 825

Background

An Australian business, CLV specialises in providing quality accommodation and supportive student communities through sustainable, long-term relationships with tertiary institutions. CLV works with approximately 50 tertiary institutions in Australia, New Zealand, the United Kingdom and the United States, managing and developing student accommodation.

CLV creates villages that feature a wide variety of facilities and resources to deliver secure, supported environments that ensure a pleasant environment not only for students who live there, but also for the surrounding community. CLV aims to enhance residential life with its structured Live, Learn and Grow programs designed to create memorable experiences, support success and assist in the transition to independence.